HER LENTEN OBSERVANCE.

One Great Pleasure She Would

Deny Herself. It was the holy season, says the Detrol Tribune. The grand specimen of moder womanhood who stood before the mirro with a curling-iron grasped in both hands had declared it to be her convic-tion that the least humanity could do was to practise self-denial during the period flent.
"Now, I"——

She dropped the tongs. She was wrapping the second lock from the left ear in paper.

Certainly you do." He had turned in astonishment.

She squeezed the second lock from th left ear with tremendous energy. " wear a small hat."

Nor did he notice that he cut his chil so deeply was he buried in thought.
